

Looking to serve a wider audience

Douglas County School District is offering a new way to provide adult education courses that serve community interests and needs. Formerly known as The Parent University, The Community University is expanding its course offerings. In addition to the popular parenting courses that have been offered since 1997, there will be new courses in response to non-parent community requests.

Course Catalog is now online

In addition to the traditional face-to-face offerings, The Community University is in the process of developing online courses that can be taken anytime or anywhere. Courses are being added regularly based on demand, so visit the online Community University Course Catalog periodically to see what's new.
