

Parents play a vital role in their teen's decisions around using alcohol. In fact, research has shown that parents actually have the greatest influence, even beyond their teen's peers. The majority of teens are looking for the right kind of support and advice from their parents. AlcoholEdu for High School Parents is a 15-20 minute module created specifically for Parents, to give them accurate information and the skill-set to communicate, or have even more productive conversations, with their teen when it comes to underage drinking.

- ✦ Dispels common myths and misperceptions about underage drinking among parents.
- ✦ Helps parents have effective conversations and prepares them to answer the tough questions from their teen, i.e. "Did you drink when you were in high school?"
- ✦ Teaches strategies for monitoring and setting rules, including tips and templates for creating rules and consequences together.
- ✦ Offers guidance on what to do if their teen is experimenting with alcohol or needs real help.
- ✦ Includes expert advice for dealing with common situations, along with links to additional resources.
- ✦ Explains laws that may impact parents, i.e. social host laws.

Parents can access the course conveniently throughout the year – 24 hours a day.

Getting parents involved in educating and communicating with their teen also benefits the greater community. Because underage drinking impacts an entire community—causing problems like, trash, violence, and alcohol-related injuries and deaths—this course also provides parents with tips and resources for collaborating with other community members to take on this issue. The more that parents are aware of the problem, the more they can do to help address it, and the more progress a school—or an entire town—can make to create a safer, healthier community.
